Acknowledgments

There is little in this world that is truly original. In fact, everything has been done before. But that is not a bad thing. It means that we can build on what others have done and create something new. We are grateful to all the people who have inspired us and to all the people who have supported us. We are grateful to our fans for their love and to our record label for their belief in us. We are grateful to our friends and family for their love and support. We are grateful to all the people who have made our journey so far so good.
